An AFL Stadium is totally unnecessary anywhere near the city of Hobart. So many great suggestions have been put forward over years for Mac Point, none of them considered for their worthiness and for everyone to enjoy. There is a constant foolishness of ideas in and around Hobart. it is not a huge city, platypus needing help in the rivulets, a very crowded city, traffic problems, polluted waters, huge cruise liners, no passenger ferries, tourism gone overboard, and to have a huge stadium built there, rather than at a huge out of town area to cater for all needs for such a stadium, so little makes sense as the population increase idea formed by Liberal leader (I dare to say the idea of two to three of his party and not the idea of the whole party, as seems so common these days).

For the general public, the outcry is No Stadium and at Mac Point for all the right reasons, and keeping the City of Hobart as peaceful as it should be for all to enjoy, so much the better can be done at Mac Point, as should have been done many years ago, the area a mess of the mindless, continual wasted precious money, and still people sleeping rough too. Fifty steps backwards IS obviously a world for the rich, and it shows sadly and badly. I cry and am depressed by the horrid actions of human's the world over. One huge paddock well out of town should nicely do the trick, make everyone happy to enjoy the footy, and all else where the roar of the crowd can get it out of their system. The sooner the better, and at a fraction of the price.
