The Stanley Peninsula's mix of heritage township, a wild coastline, & a world-renowned volcanic landscape qualifies strongly under six (of Nine) National Heritage List assessment criteria. Having the Peninsula within a Scenic Protection Area, therefore, is sound economics. Preserving its unique geodiversity, biodiversity, & cultural diversity will bolster the micro-economy. Leveraging the unique assets will attract nature-loving/history-loving visitors who will spread the word & that will drive employment opportunities. Designation as a Scenic Protection Area will also help ward off indecent developemnt project proposals in the future.
